Alison Bledsoe, Speaker

Alison is a long-time member of the Early Childhood community having worked the front lines in childcare and family support programs managing teams of educators in a range of settings from leading various funding, and policy and development initiatives, to administering Early Years investments for one of BC's largest philanthropic organizations, Ministry of Education.

As an ECE faculty member in public post-secondary settings, Alison was instrumental as a consultant for Early Years organizations and initiatives.

WORKSHOP

Feeling uncertain or overwhelmed by the changes (current and future) in the Early Years sector in British Columbia? In this session, we will explore some key changes:

- BC Declaration of the Rights of Indigenous Peoples
- BC Early Learning Framework
- New provincial mandates (including integration of early care and learning under Ministry of Education)
- New federal commitments to establishing a Canada-wide Early Learning & Child Care System

What do these changes, mandates and commitments mean to individuals, to programs, and/or to the entire sector? Join us for exploration of the 'human element' of change where participants will be invited to explore our values-based practice, the images we hold, as well as the vulnerabilities and skills at the heart of leading this work forward.
